

Financial Adviser risk product marketing by website

Technology is creating more ways for an Adviser to generate business.

The opportunity to market your services and products via a website is now available and inexpensive.

This is an invitation to get a obligation free quote for a website which can increase your production.

Some of the attractions which can be included in a website to increase your activity are:

- Silver Package - Single page services and product description – a simple one page website featuring logo or stylized business name with descriptions of services and contact details.
- Gold Package - Information collection for quote – a more sophisticated website which encourages the visitor to complete some details on the website to obtain a risk insurance quote from you using the risk companies you choose. The information can be transferred to you as data for processing or as an email.
- Platinum Package - Full Quotation website – this style of website encourages the visitor to complete the page with enough information to get an instant quote comparing the companies you select. When a product is selected, Life, TPD, Trauma, Income Protection or combinations of any, the visitor can submit the information to you via data transfer or email for processing.
- Regular automated updates of industry news and article information – if required.

No additional computer knowledge is required!

To obtain a confidential quote from our website please click the link below and complete the questionnaire.

Website quote <http://www.addata.com.au/websitequote.htm> Or contact with details below.

To view an example of what details could appear in your website click the link below, click "Get Result" to view Quote and then "Apply Online" to view the added information which would be sent to you:

<http://www.addata.com.au/AdDataDemo/AdDataWebQuote.htm>

View a testimonial

<http://www.addata.com.au/AdDataDemo/InsuranceChampions.pdf>